Retirement!	2

There are many ways to prepare yourself and your loved ones for an emergency situation. Emergency preparedness takes many forms including:

- Making a plan.
- Knowing the emergencies that are common to your area.
- Familiarizing yourself with weather terminology.
- Keeping an emergency kit for your home and transportation.
- Know how to respond to various weather emergency, how and where to shelter.

A key aspect of preparedness is being in tune to the weather around you. Catching the weather segment on the 6 o'clock news isn't always conducive to our lives. But weather apps have come a long way in providing reliable, up-to-date, and area specific information. You can receive alerts for multiple locations on some apps. Here are a few that might interest you, are free, and keep you informed.
